

Is solar safe a scam

Is solar safe a scam

The .gov means it's official. Federal government websites often end in .gov or .mil. Before sharing sensitive information, make sure you're on a federal government site.

The site is secure. The https:// ensures that you are connecting to the official website and that any information you provide is encrypted and transmitted securely.

Make smart shopping decisions, know your rights, and solve problems when you shop or donate to charity.

View Shopping and Donating

What to know when you're looking for a job or more education, or considering a money-making opportunity or investment.

How to protect your personal information and privacy, stay safe online, and help your kids do the same.

View Identity Theft and Online Security

When temperatures rise, utility costs do, too. While reputable companies can help you save money with clean or solar energy improvements, scammers offer more than they can deliver. The scams vary, but here's the gist: someone claiming to be with the government or your utility company promises big savings on your utility bills from solar energy or other home improvements designed to increase energy efficiency. If you agree to the scammer's offer, it could cost you tens of thousands of dollars.

These scams start with an unexpected phone call, message on social, or even an in-person visit. The so-called official offers you an "energy audit" to reduce your utility costs. Or they might try to sign you up for a "free" program to make your home more energy efficient with solar energy. While they might say they're from your utility company or the government, they're not. And while they promise free or low-cost solar panels, or offer you huge rebates, tax credits, or utility incentives to pay for those solar panels, those are lies. Some so-called officials even say your utility company already signed you up for the program, so now you need to pay. That is, of course, also a scam.

If you spot a scam, tell the Federal Trade Commission at ReportFraud.ftc.gov.

Thank you for teaching us how to smell out a rat. On the Internet, we see so many "free if you live in xxxxx zip codes" and now know they're scammers. Like the old Expression "if it sounds too good to be true, it probably is." (But gad, they're hard to resist)

Is solar safe a scam

Hard working families are caught in the snares of Big Business/Companies every day! They think nothing of taking your hard earned money! In too many cases they take the food of the table with "threats" if you don't pay up! They leave you with faulty products and a bad Credit Report. You are left with NOTHING but a bill!

Contact us for free full report

Web: <https://kary.com.pl/contact-us/>

Email: energystorage2000@gmail.com

WhatsApp: 8613816583346

