Nio was founded in November 2014.

Nio has established itself as an industry leader for battery swapping technologies. It cites its "battery-as-a-service", or BAAS, as a technological breakthrough.

The company technically has a portfolio of nine different vehicles that range from tourer vehicles, SUVs, sedans, and executive vehicles.

An individual or group who acquires more than 5% of a company's shares must file within 10 days of the transaction a 13D form, or in certain cases the simpler 13G form. Any investor filing one of these forms is considered an institutional investor.

Insider refers to people in senior management positions and members of the board of directors, as well as people or entities that own more than 10% of the company's stock. In this context, it has nothing to do with insider trading.
